

What to expect this year

Welcome back to a new school year in Badgers Class! We have a very exciting year planned, starting with our First World War topic. Please check the school website for a topic web showing exactly what we will be covering this half term.

This year we are encouraging independence through a positive growth mindset. Children are expected to take pride in their learning, through joined, cursive handwriting and to challenge themselves daily.

PE – Tuesday and Wednesday – ensure earrings are removed and a black tracksuit is provided as the weather grows colder.

Homework – This has been set and is due in on a Thursday.

Spellings are tested on Thursdays. Homework can be completed in advance and handed in early.

24 hour homework – This is given out as and when something happens in class that the children (or myself 😊) would like to know more about. It is due in within 24 hours and can be handed in using the format of your choice.

Class Dojo – Dojo points are awarded to individuals who are working towards the school's core values. Dojo prizes can be earned once a set number of points are earned. More information on this to follow shortly.

What you can do to help

Continue to read with your child every night as well as practise times tables daily.

Help your child to become more independent. This could be through them getting their own PE kit ready and coming into class on their own with everything they need for the day.

If you have any queries or concerns please feel free to speak with me after school. Alternatively, send your child in with a note or speak with the office before school, as mornings are often busy.

Thank you for making me feel so welcome at Dr Walkers. I'm very much looking forward to the year ahead.
